

A PROFESSIONAL'S PROFESSIONAL

JOHN F. NICHOLS

JOHN F. NICHOLS, "favorite son" candidate of the Michigan chiefs for the 1972 post of IACP's sixth vice president, has the ideal combination of professional service, exceptional performance and man-to-man savvy to be every chief's favorite.

Detroit Police Commissioner since October, 1970, tough-minded but genial John is top man in the department where he started as a 23-year-old patrolman in 1942.

Although he heads a department equipped with everything from motor scooters to helicopters, he gets the greatest personal enjoyment out of a ride in the saddle with Detroit's colorful mounted unit.

His department has had to cope with some of the most sophisticated problems in modern metropolitan policing. At the same time it has maintained an outstanding record of teamwork and shared services with smaller adjacent departments.
